Woman, her lover held for abetting hubby to end life

PNS LUCKNOW

Three days after a man ended his life, the Mohanlalgani police, on Wednesday, arrested his wife and her lover for abetting him to commit suicide.

On October 31, the deceased, Pradeep Singh of Mohanlalgani, was found hanging in a room at his house with his son sitting in the room all alone and wailing. Pradeep Singh's son and villagers had alleged that he was killed and then hanged to stage it as a case of suicide and the locals had staged a protest accusing the police of hushing up the incident.

Buckling under the pressure of the locals, the police had registered a case of murder against the deceased's wife, yoti Singh, and her lover, Jogendra Singh aka Rangoli.

DCP (South) Rahul Raj said the Indian Penal Code sections of the case registered earlier against Jyoti and Jogendra were altered into sections 306 and 323 for abetting one to commit suicide and thrashing the person.

The DCP (South) said

Pradeep had a heated argument with Jogendra and Jyoti on the fateful day after seeing both at the house.

Jogendra and he lost cool when he saw both coming together to his house. During the verbal spat, Jogendra and Jyoti hrashed the victim who hanged himself to death in a room at his house. The accused filmed Pradeep's act in their mobile phones which has now been recovered," the DCP said.

He said the police had adequate evidence to prove that Pradeep committed suicide and was not murdered.

Explaining the sequence of events, the police said Pradeep's elder daughter had complained to her mother on October 30 about his misdeed with her and Jyoti along with Jogendra had reached the house in the night on October 30.

"Pradeep had three children and their youngest daughter was staying with Jyoti who is living with Jogendra after deserting Pradeep. Jyoti took her elder daughter with her after she had a verbal spat with Pradeep over the latter's conduct. Jogendra had taken the side of Jyoti in the verbal spat. Later Pradeep hanged himself from the ceiling of the room of his house," the police said.

An undertrial prisoner admitted at Shatabdi Hospital of King George's Medical "Pradeep was annoyed at University escaped from police Jyoti's association with custody by pretending to go to the washroom on Tuesday night. When he did not return from the washroom, the cops frantically searched for him and later lodged a report in this connection. As per reports, a prisoner identified as Vishambhar of Lakhimpur Kheri district lodged at Shahjahanpur jail was admitted to Shatabdi Hospital after he developed some health issues. Two constables were deployed to escort him to the KGMU and keep an eye on him.

On Tuesday night,

Vishambhar told the cops that he was going to relieve himself and left for the washroom. On finding that he was taking a long time in the washroom, the constables went there but did not find him. The cops asked the security guards and were told that they had seen Vishambhar going out of the ward. The police said they were scanning the CCTV footages to find Vishambhar's exit route from the hospital. In one of the footage, the prisoner is seen going outside the hospital. It surfaced that the policemen Vishambhar lodged a report five hours after the prisoner had escaped. "The prisoner disappeared in the evening hours but the cops informed the Chowk police about him around midnight," the police sources said.

Biological therapies, newer strategies for breast cancer treatment

D iological therapies and Bnewer strategies made on newer drugs are being used for the treatment of breast cancer at Saniav Gandhi Post-Graduate Institute of Medical Sciences, according to chief medical superintendent (CMS) Dr Gaurav Agarwal. These are being applied to patients in advanced stage of "This is how the development of cancer has been. Therapies are initially tried and tested for advanced stage of cancer and once their worth is produced, we start testing them even for the earlier stage. The reason is that in the advanced stage of cancer, we are desperate and when nothing else is working, the families are desperate to find some relief for patients," he said

Dr Agarwal said once the efficacy of the treatment in the advanced cases are seen, they start trying out the same in other cases too and try and prove if the use of these strategies can check cancer and prolong the life of patients.

"In these newer therapies, there have been some exciting results. These therapies are called immunotherapies month. which can change the immune system of patients. In all diseases, two things are common — the virulence of the disease and the response of the host. Immunity is nothing but response to the outside treatment," he explained. Dr Agarwal said a lot of women could be cured without breast mutilation. "Every patient is different from the other. The current philosophy of the breast cancer patient is not to treat all the cases in the same manner. As per the new techniques of treatment, new factors are being targeted for better treatment and cancer cells can be targeted through immunotherapy," he He pointed out that there is a recent thought process that the cancer patients who have a low hormone receptivity — which means they are neither strongly positive nor negative but somewhere in between — could also be treated with various thera-

He said they carried out several activities in October, which is a cancer awareness

"We have held programmes on how awareness on cancer can save lives. Cancer survivors addressed 150-odd people," he pointed

He said the highlight was that the survivors got the correct advice and received their families' and friends'

'The treatment goes for eight to nine months and can be quite trying as well as challenging. The whole family needs to keep the spirits of the patient up. Getting the right treatment in the right place and not getting distracted with alternative therapies helps because some women just want to give up and say they can't take it, but the family members support them," he noted. Likening breast cancer treatment to 'tapasya', Dr Agarwal said it is like putting oneself through hardships for own good. "Cancer treatment is long and arduous but it ensures long and healthy life," he said.
